Miller-Meeks Votes for Extremist Jim Jordan for Speaker of the House, Picks Author of Nationwide Abortion Ban over Results for Iowans

Christina Bohannon released the following statement on Miller-Meeks' vote for Jim Jordan for Speaker of the House:

“Rep. Miller-Meeks’ choice for Speaker yet again shows her true values. Instead of working together to empower a moderate option that can get things done for Iowa, Miller-Meeks prefers an extremist who is the author of the GOP’s nationwide abortion ban with no exceptions for rape or incest - which she also herself supported.

“And at a time when the farm bill has expired, with no replacement in sight, Miller-Meeks has chosen a politician who has opposed every farm bill that’s come before him in Congress.

“Miller-Meeks is a part of the Washington Republican machine whose extreme agenda puts nationwide abortion bans ahead of real results for Iowans like the farm bill. And sadly, Iowans are going to continue to pay the price until we have new leadership that actually fights for our communities.”

It’s no surprise Miller-Meeks caved to the extremists in her party and voted for Jim Jordan. She has pushed the same dangerous agenda of banning abortion with no exceptions against the wishes of a majority of Iowans and ignoring critical priorities for Iowa, like the Farm Bill, which has expired with no replacement in sight. Miller-Meeks’ failure to act means 618 Iowa Dairy farms could lose out on nearly $40,000 in monthly payments. Without a Farm Bill, 9,400 jobs in IA-01 could be at risk. There would be no guarantee of continued and sustained crop growth by ensuring our air quality, waterways, and soil health are protected. Farmers experiencing extreme weather would get zero support.

And Miller-Meeks isn’t just supporting Jordan for Speaker. She is a longtime follower and supporter. Jordan has made political donations to Miller-Meeks, and she has invited him to headline her fundraisers and other events.
